

HINT: Word

Jax knew that something unusual was in that tin. The mysterious creatures must have been strong to have rocked the box over as they were being born. The clues point to something small and colorful. They left something behind they no longer need- crunchy and sharp to the touch, but yet the protective home to those that are young and need care.

